

BRUT ROSÉ

A Rosé made from an ideal blend, intimate and refreshing at once, with an impressive (yet not excessive) nose. In “blind” tastings, it’s unmistakably a Rosé, with all the characteristics that come with that. A natural taste, between simplicity and elegance.

A blend rosé

The Brut Rosé is what we call a “blend” rosé. This is one of the two methods authorised in Champagne to obtain a pink-coloured wine, the second one being the partial maceration technique called “saignée”. The blend method consists in adding a small portion of red (or rosé) wine to a white wine base.

Red wines 10% of the blend. Made out of Pinot noir and Meunier coming from Trigny, Chigny-les-Roses (Montagne de Reims), and Neuville-sur-Seine (Côte des bar). It is partly aged in oak barrels for one year.

White wines 90% of the blend. This is a blend of the year’s wines and reserve wines (about 25%) similar to the one found in our Brut Tradition.
